

High School Literacy Resources

READERS ARE LEADERS

The following are resources for families to learn more about supporting literacy development in high school.

Khan Academy is an educational resource for parents and high school learners that provides free world-class education for anyone, anywhere.

<https://www.khanacademy.org>

readwritethink

Read write think is a tool that parents can use to access literacy and afterschool resources by grade level, including grades 9-12.

<http://www.readwritethink.org/parent-afterschool-resources/>

A literacy resource for parents to share with high school student that is meant to be entertaining, inventive, and engaging.

<https://guides.loc.gov/jason-reynolds/grab-the-mic/wrr>

A wide variety of resources available to students of high school grades/levels with diverse topics, including literacy activities for reading and comprehension.

<https://www.pbslearningmedia.org/grades/high-school/>

